First Class to Graduate from Claresholm School of Agriculture Awarded Diplomas

Twenty-Eight Young Men Finish 2-year Course in Agriculture; 8 Young Ladies in Domestic Science

Over 500 People Pack the School Auditorium

The largest audience that has yet been crowded into the spacious auditorium of the Claresholm School of Agriculture was that which assembled on Friday evening to witness the presentation of diplomas to the first graduating class of this institution, an institution, which with its sister schools at Olds and Vermilion, is unique in the Dominion of Canada, and practically, it may be said, in the world. There are advanced colleges which teach agriculture and train instructors for the teaching of agriculture, but this institution is a school for intending agriculturists with a view to further the movement "stay on the farm and farm more intelligently" rather than the "back to the farm" movement. It takes the youth from the farm and sends him back with a greater respect for his environment and calling and a truer conception of the dignity and depth of farming as a life work. The 500 people who attended the closing exercises last Friday evening have followed with intense interest the work of this almost experiment and rejoiced with the staff of the school and with the representatives of the government present in the fact that the first graduating class was about to go out to their several communities to demonstrate the value of the education given, the advice imparted and the importance of the influences which are supposed to be exerted by those graduating from this institution.

The social side of the evening's program made itself seen in the costumes of the ladies and the "sweet girl graduates" in white gowns, gave a note of gaiety to the gathering which has not been so noticeable at any previous functions at the school. The hall was so crowded that very shortly after the hour announced, all seats of which there were over 300 and all standing room was occupied and many were unable to even get a foothold in the room itself let alone hear the addresses. On the platform with Principal Stephen were Dr. Shuttleworth, late professor of chemistry at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, now the proprietor of a large stock farm near Blackie, Alta.; Dr. Miller, superintendent of technical education for Alberta; H. A. Craig, superintendent of provincial demonstration farms; G. H. Marnoch, president of Lethbridge board of trade; Chas. Noble, of the Noble Foundation farms, Noholm; J. Clements, formerly manager of the Olds demonstration farm, now associated with the encouragement of fairs and institutes; and Mayor Holmes, Claresholm.

Principal Stephen welcomed the audience on behalf of the staff of the school and the students and spoke of his gratification, and that of the department of agriculture for the province, at the splendid vindication of the policy of the province in the institution of this scheme of agricultural education which had been seen in the manner in which the farmers of the country had responded by sending their sons to the schools and in the enthusiasm with which the work was followed and approved by the thinking people of the province. What had begun as an experiment, what was a virtual pioneer undertaking in the whole world, was now, at the end of its first year, to forward its first graduating class and the work of uplifting to dignity the noble profession of agriculture was fairly begun. The students would go out with more than a certain amount of instruction assimilated; they would go out each to his community to continue the work of uplift on the farm, in the farm homes, in the farm social circles. They had, if the instruction had struck down its roots deeply in the soil of the mind, had the curtain lifted, if ever so little, and nature should be to them a study, worthy of the most diligent research and keenest observation, that his hidden riches might be uncovered. He extended a welcome to the visiting parents and observers from the district served by this school and extended a welcome to those who should address the meeting and take part in the closing exercises.

Mr. Marnoch spoke for the delegation from Lethbridge which had spent a day investigating the operation and work of the school here and expressed his great satisfaction at the things which he has seen. Lethbridge wanted a school like the Claresholm school and this was the highest praise which he could give the institution here, for Lethbridge wanted none but the best things. His only criticism of the curriculum was that the boys should be taught domestic science as well as the girls, a point which he established by most humorous argument.

The presentation of the diplomas made by Dr. Shuttleworth, who had a bright quip for each as he handed the roll. Advice, solid and substantial, clothed in humor and persiflage, made this otherwise tedious exercise one of the brightest parts of the evening program. Dr. Miller followed with a short address in which the technical side of the education in these schools was given due credit. He thought that the ideal of the school should be to be an institution for teaching agriculturists rather than agriculture. The work of greater importance than these schools are designed to do is to equip and send out community leaders. Agriculture is a profession that must be elevated from within, rather than from without. There is in the ideals kept before them by the board of agricultural education a proper and proportionate emphasis upon the economic problems of the farm as well as the scientific and with these the social problems must be given due place.

H. A. Craig in the course of a practical address, warned the students that the watchword "Patriotism and Production" must not be narrowly applied to grain growing alone, but that foremost in any patriotic increase in production should come an increase in the production of live-stock and its associated departments. He advised the farmer to base his operations on the live-stock end of his business.

J. Clements, associated with the work of Alberta fairs and institutes, made his debut before a southern Alberta audience, in the closing speech of the evening. He made

Huns Running Short of Shells

Ammunition, ammunition, nothing but ammunition," that is the essential problem which the war presents in the opinion of Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces in France and Belgium, according to the Havas agency correspondent at British headquarters.

"Ammunition is the prerequisite of all progress and of all pushing ahead," Sir John is quoted as saying in an interview with the Havas correspondent. "Every one needs plenty of ammunition, but the Germans need it more than we do. I have had a feeling for some time past that they were being spared of their shells. They don't spare them as at the beginning. They are economizing because the lack of nitrate necessary for the manufacture of explosives is making itself felt in Germany."

"Neither is the morale of their troops the same. One gets from them an impression of fatigue and lassitude. They had based all their calculations on a sudden smashing victory. That plan failed and the state of mind of their troops has suffered as a consequence."

"Economic difficulties" in the interior of the German Empire are daily becoming more serious. No doubt the Germans still are far from famine, but they manifestly are hampered in obtaining food supply, and that is a great deal.

"I do not believe it will be a long war. Spring promises well for the Allies. We are convinced that a decisive and a definite victory awaits us at the end of all these hard months of war."

The above very optimistic statement as to the length of the war credited to Sir John French is, if authentic, full of significance. He would not say anything that tended to bring about any relaxation of effort in Britain unless he felt absolutely sure that his forecasts would be verified.

Would Thank Them

Mr. Abel takes this opportunity to thank the student body of the Agricultural School for their feelings of regard expressed so eloquently in the handsome presentation made at the close of the term.

the transition from the grave to the gay and, in a very humorous manner, put the audience into a very pleasing mood for the wind-up of a rather lengthy program. His address was replete with good advice to the students who are severing their connection with the school of agriculture, which advice will be none the less impressive because it was presented in a pleasing way.

In the course of the program, Miss Ethelyn Knight sang a patriotic song which was encores, the response being Tolstoy's "Good-bye." P. M. Abel accompanying her on the violin. Gerald McClean, in his characteristic manner, sang playfully a sea song. The Misses Agnes and Ruby Floss rendered a piece to duet. The McCormick orchestra, with W. R. Shanks on the cornet, played several selections while the crowd was assembling and also played for the dance at the close of the evening program. The absence of Hun Duncun Marshall, Dr. Rutherford and our own member was regretted but these gentlemen found it impossible to be present. In all this was the most enjoyable function which has taken place under the auspices of the Claresholm School of Agriculture.

Will Consolidate Its Debt

By a special bill, now before the legislature at Edmonton, the town of Claresholm is permitted to consolidate its debt, substituting for debentures with 10 years of life others with 80 years to run. All the holders of the municipal debentures of this town have assented to exchange the debentures now held for those with the longer term. This enables the town to spread its payments over a longer period and relieves in some measure the financial impasse in which it found itself.

Mission Circle as Hostesses

At the home of Geo. Ringrose, on Tuesday evening, the girls of the Mission Circle of the Methodist church held their social evening. A large number of the young folks of the church as guests. The program consisted of several specially interesting recitations and songs in which the entertainers were attired in the costumes of the countries referred to in the selection chosen. Miss Blugens presented India. Burpee Macrae as Japan, Miss Morrow, China, and others. Social chatted games were also a part of the evening entertainment. The presentation was made in the nature of a surprise to Miss Julia Solby, whose approaching marriage has been announced. The matter had been kept so closely that the recipient was not present and her sister, Mrs. W. E. Atkinson, accepted and responded for Miss Julia. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

Calgary a Training Centre

It has been decided by the department of militia to establish certain training and shooting camps for summer work in the Dominion, and to complete the training of the soldiers now in Canada. Vancouver will be required, as will also Petaawa. In addition a tract of ground will be secured in British Columbia, while at Calgary and Medicine Hat camps will be established for Alberta. Camp Russell will be put into commission for the central troops. In Ontario, many will be established at Niagara, Barryfield and London, while in the maritime provinces there will be training grounds at Amherst and Kentville. Shooting and manoeuvring will be the specialty.

Gold-Piece Shows Appreciated

A committee of eight representing the graduating class at the School of Agriculture, surprised P. M. Abel, professor of animal husbandry, of the school, at the home of Wm. Knight on Saturday evening and made him the recipient of a gold piece as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by the class. The presentation was accompanied by an address of appreciation and was fittingly responded to by Mr. Abel.

Mr. Bacon witnessed the retreat from Mons, the battle of the Marne and the Aisne and has a story to tell that crowds the largest church. Rev. Dr. Briggs says, "Bacon is a remarkable and talented man. I never heard his equal." Do you want to hear the clearest, clearest and the most typical and patriotic concert and war recital ever given in Canada. At the Methodist Church on Thursday, April 8th. Admission 50 cents.

It may be well known that nitro-culture for insulating Alfaalfa, Red Clover, Prinsen Clover, Sweet Clover, and Rape, is prepared at the Provincial Institute of Agriculture, Claresholm, at 25 cent per bottle, to cover postage and cost of production. The groom was Harry Clarke, now of Brunetta, but formerly of Meadow Creek and the bride was Hester, the eldest daughter of Mr. F. and Mrs. Bell, of Brunetta, but who also were formerly residents of the Creek neighborhood. The mother and the brother of the bride accompanied the contracting couple to Vulcan. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white satin with Claret lace. Her travelling gown was a tailored costume of blue serge with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke are spending a short honeymoon with friends at Meadow Creek and Clareholm. Both are very popular young folks in Brunetta and at the Creek and The Advertiser joins the friends in warmest congratulations.

Got Them All the Same

If you had been at the School of agriculture last Friday afternoon and all the prize-winners had been there, all the prizes had arrived and all had been distributed in the hands of the school. The prize-winners in which they should and the contestants had been compelled to parade the streets with their prizes and they had really done so, you would have seen Geo. Beatty with his arm around the neck of a very lively yearling heifer of the district purpose. Short-horn breed being chased by F. E. Torbit assisted by an eight month old heifer calf of the same complexion; H. Paulson would be carrying his heifer calf and Gust Benson the same; Colin Tilson would be driving a pair of pure-bred Duro-Jersey pigs, one going south and the other north but Earl Lovell would have his in his pockets; L. A. Parry would have an armful of six pure-bred poultry and F. R. Slipp would be trying to carry two birds in each hand; Peter Vandervoort and Henry Sharples would have their prize pigs in their vest pockets. But neither Geo. Beatty nor Peter Vandervoort were there to receive their prizes with the nice speech of presentation of H. A. Craig, the president of the school and some of the prizes were not there, and some of the winners thought out other means of transportation.

Lethbridge Being Aroused

The Lethbridge Herald says of the results of the labors of Gilbert and McPherson, who have been for several weeks holding revival services in that city: "A tidal wave of evangelism seems to be sweeping over the city. People who have taken an active part in this campaign say they have never seen anything like it before. It is quite apparent that the city of Lethbridge has never been moved in a similar way, and the feeling is that the movement is only just starting."

Ned Brown and sister attended the closing exercises of the school of agriculture last Friday evening.

Oliver and Mrs. Mosley spent Sunday and last week the guests of L. N. and Mrs. Warren, the newlyweds.

Several ladies from this vicinity attended the meeting held at the school of agriculture on Saturday last and are happy to report that a Women's Institute was organized.

Edwin Frederickson returned home on Monday last week from the north country where he has spent several months hunting and trapping. There was no fortune made owing to the fact that furs are selling so cheap this year.

School is closing for a few days owing to the fact that the new teacher, Miss Thines, who is expected from Montana, has not arrived. Peter McNeil, late teacher in our school, leaves this week for his homestead.

We Sell Butter Wrappers

Again the attention of the makers and the sellers of butter is called to the Dairy Industry Act, 1914, which became effective on Sept. 1st, 1914, by which it is made an offence to sell butter for sale for sale (this applies to either the merchant or the maker), "any dairy butter packed, moulded or cut into blocks, squares, or prints and wrapped in parchment paper unless such paper is branded "Dairy Butter." The letters must be at least a quarter of an inch in size. The Advertiser has already sold over 12,000 butter wrappers and is in a position to give you prompt service at right prices. It is in the interest of every maker of good butter (and who does not) to have one's own name on the wrapper as well. It means that if you sell your butter to the storekeeper and a customer comes and asks for good butter and sees the name on the wrapper, the next time the customer will ask for Mr. So-and-So's butter and this is advertising. It is worth as much of the while of the maker of dairy butter proportionately as it is for the maker of any other commodity—the name's the thing.

Step Toward Righting Wrong

The Hon. C. H. Cross is the sponsor of a bill now before the Alberta legislature to give to women some measure of their property right in a Dower bill. This measure has been asked for by the women of Alberta for some time and "better late than never."

Cannot Swear in Vote

By an act of the Dominion government brought in this week, the man who fails to get his name on the voters' list at the time of registration will be unable to swear in his vote on polling day. This practice was not the safest or the easiest defended and this action of the federal government seems timely. If a man values his franchise let him see to it in time that his name is on the list.

Easter! What if we have adopted a name which recalls the heathen worship of Ashtar? It carries to our conviction that as the seed cannot be sown except it die so we are in the passing of striving the fruition of achievement. Christmas Day warms and gladdens our hearts with the lesson learned from the Babe of Bethlehem that God has left heaven to dwell among men, but with a fuller and fuller promise from the resurrected Christ is the lesson learned that man has ascended into heaven. And as men live with the undying conviction that when our probationary period on earth is over, there is a larger life into which we enter. So, this Easter-tide, when earth is throwing from its shackles of winter, and nature is beginning to feel the pulsation of the new life that is to be, may we, in our earth-fettered condition have within that which, too, will develop into the higher life of the uplands. Christmas seems to be a favorite time for the making of resolutions; but as nature begins to fulfill the impulses swelling within her bosom, what better time than for man to resolve that the new life shall supersede the old in his heart and conduct, and coincident with the unfolding of nature, let his better life unfold its beauty and growing strength. Easter—Spring in the heart.

The report of Grade VIII Easter exams appears in this issue. We presume that the reports of the exams in the other classes will come to hand in time for our next issue.

Saskatoon, Sask., Mar. 21.—The trades and labor council tonight passed by a unanimous standing vote a resolution of thanks to the provincial government for the proposed legislation to abolish the bar.
